

David Parker

Executive Director, Operations

David has spent nearly 40 years at EMCOR UK, he joined in 1983, and has an extensive operational background in electrical engineering, project and facilities management. As a formally qualified Chartered Director David is an active member of our Executive Leadership Team and has co responsibility for our entire UK operational delivery with particular emphasis in providing our customers with energy related solutions.

David's principle role is to lead the safe delivery of our services to our customers and build high performing teams. David has developed an extensive knowledge of business drivers, and deep understanding of operational management. David has a strong interest in developing solutions to complex customer challenges and enjoys developing long lasting relationships with all stakeholders to create a better world at work for everyone.

David delivers with a smile and being available to talk and collaborate with anyone across the business is what motivates him alongside being able to help in forging lasting connections across our teams, which is equally as important to him.

Dave is a keen runner and Vespa enthusiast who also enjoys restoring wooden furniture in his spare time.

find out more 