

Dave Parker

Chief Strategy Officer

Dave has spent over 40 years at EMCOR UK since joining in 1983, and has an extensive operational background in electrical engineering, project and facilities management. Dave is a member of our Executive Leadership Team (ELT) and Board and is responsible for leading the Business Development and IT teams, our product and change programmes across the business, along with maintaining our strategic positioning.

Dave has developed an extensive knowledge of business drivers, along with a deep understanding of operational management. He has a strong interest in developing solutions to solve complex customer challenges and enjoys developing high performing teams and forging long lasting relationships with all stakeholders to create a better world at work for everyone.

Dave delivers with a smile and being available to talk to and engage with people across the business is what motivates him.

Dave is a keen sailor and Vespa enthusiast who also enjoys restoring and making wooden furniture in his spare time.
